Study Title: Choice Game

Investigator(s): Sarah Joseph

Supervisor(s): Wenjia Joyce Zhao

Thank you for your participation in this experiment. This study aims to understand people's behaviour while navigating through possibilities under circumstances of losses or gains. We are exploring whether individuals who explore the losses more intensively pay more attention to the choice options. We are also interested in the lasting effect of search behaviours in the loss domain, i.e. whether it carries forward to influence behaviours in the gain domain, and vice versa.

Data collection for this study is still on-going. Please do not share specifics of this study with anyone. If you are asked about this experiment, you can use the nondescript phrase like "it was fun" or "it was interesting".

We appreciate your participation in the study, and if you have questions about this study, please contact Sarah Joseph at Sarah.Joseph@warwick.ac.uk.
